LOUISA, LAWRENCE COUNTY, KENTUCKY, OCTOBER 6, 1911.

M. F. CONLEY, Publisher.

HON. J. T. HEFLIN

Of Alabama, at Louisa Monday, October 16th.

One of the Country's Greatest Orators to Speak Here on County Court Day.

Hon. J. Thomas Heflin, of Alabama, will speak at Louisa on Monday, October 16th, at one o'clock. Mr. Heflin is one of the great orators of the South, and no citizen of Lawrence County should fail to hear him. He is one of the most entertaining kind of speakers that delights in hearing. Having served in Congress for many years he knows all about the great question of the day, and he can tell you about it in the brightest, clearest way possible. There is no speaker in the United States that can surpass him, judging from the words of those who know best about these things. The State Committee considers it a great victory to have secured his services. Mr. Heflin will also speak at Pikeville, Prestonsburg and Uniontown on the three days following his Louisa appointment.

Prof. Coates Will Visit Louisa.

The following letter from State Supervisor, T. J. Coates, regarding the postponement of his visit to this county is self explanatory: Frankfort, Ky., Sept. 21, 1911. Prof. T. J. Coates, Morehead, Ky. Dear Mr. Coates.—Dr. Wallace Butterick will assist us in Lexington Wednesday morning. Make your arrangements to be there. Very truly yours, ELLSWORTH REGENSTEIN, Supt. Public Instruction, Morehead, Ky., Sept. 23, 1911. Dear Mr. O'Daniel.—The above letter speaks for itself. I must obey for this meeting means much to Kentucky. I will explain later. It was entirely unexpected to me. I can not do the work for you next week, but I can the following week. Please let my engagements be put off exactly one week. I will be in Louisa Sunday, Oct. 8. I will bear any expense of the change. I regret it, but I can not help it. Dr. Butterick is putting up the money. He is the Secretary of the General Education Board. Your friend, T. J. COATES.

He will be in the county next week and will visit the following points:

- Monday, Oct. 9, at 9 o'clock a. m. Gypsy Thompson, Mounds branch.
- Monday, Oct. 9, at 1:30 p. m. Nathan George's school, Forks Clear creek.
- Tuesday, Oct. 10, 7:30 a. m. J. Moore's school, Matile.
- Tuesday, Oct. 10, 10 a. m. J. M. Dowell's school, Prosperity.
- Tuesday, Oct. 10, 2 p. m. E. E. Wheeler's school, Hoods Fork.
- Wednesday, Oct. 11, 8:30 a. m. Elmore's school, Upper Hiale.
- Wednesday, Oct. 11, 2:30 p. m. Adams' school, Cherokee.
- Thursday, Oct. 12, 8 a. m. Thompson's school, Lick Fork.
- Thursday, Oct. 12, 2:30 p. m. Heflin's school, Olliville.
- Friday, Oct. 13, 8 a. m. J. H. school, Falksburg.
- Friday, Oct. 13, 1 p. m. Add school, Zeldin.
- Will speak Monday night, Oct. 9 o'clock, Charley.
- Monday night, Oct. 10, 7:00 Webbville.
- Monday night, Oct. 12, 7:00 o'clock, Saltwater, Saturday for failure to send his child to school, and fined him $2.50 and costs.

They do some things very well over in W. Va. Mr. Fulkerson is an attorney of this place, and his many friends will be glad to learn that he will probably make a complete recovery.

Broke into a School House.

Dock Hill, Sam Gallihue and Sarah, his sister, Russell Thompson and Mary and Stella, his sisters, are in the county jail in default of bail of $300 each. This unfortunate condition is the result of their trial before Judge Hogg on Saturday last on a charge of breaking into a schoolhouse on the Tar Kila branch of Hood last Thursday night. The loss of some articles of school furniture and a coat was discovered Friday morning and a warrant for the arrest of the supposed guilty parties was given to deputy Sheriff E. E. Ives. The officer soon hit the trail and it was not long before he came upon the parties above named. They had made a halt for refreshment and were cooking a chicken in a bucket identified as one which had been used in the school. They also had the missing coat.

Chuncl Meeting.

Council met in regular monthly session last Tuesday night, all members except Messrs. Herry and Wilson being present. Eighty-three dollars was turned into the emergency fund, to be used in the much needed repair of the streets.

The water works bill was lessened by $100, the same being paid on the indebtedness of the town.

Settlement in full was made with former Marshals Al. and Dave Wellman.

Complaint having been made that the keeper of the bridge toll gate has been much annoyed at night by the actions of sundry hoodlums who infest the bridge at a late hour, an ordinance was enacted looking to the relief of the keeper and the abatement of the nuisance.

WILL FULKERSON INJURED.

Skull Fractured by Falling from an Electric Car.

A 'phone message from Catlettsburg last Saturday evening informed Mrs. Julia Fulkerson, of this city that her son, William Fulkerson, had fallen from a street car at that place and was seriously injured. Accompanied by friends Mrs. Fulkerson took N. and W. train No. 3 the same night and hastened to the bedside of her son. She found him at the King's daughters' hospital, Ashland, receiving the proper aid and attention. Mr. Fulkerson had sustained a fracture of the base of the skull, and for a considerable time it was doubtful as to the issue. Some improvement in his condition was noticed in a day or two, and at this time the prospect for his ultimate recovery is favorable. Dr. Henan Fulkerson, of Fleming county, a brother of the injured man, was telegraphed for and is with him. Dr. L. H. York, of this city, has also seen him professionally.

Mr. Fulkerson is not permitted to talk much, and but little is known how the accident occurred. It is learned, however, that Mr. Fulkerson was on the rear end of a car, and in turning a curve near Plum street, Catlettsburg, he fell off.

Mr. Fulkerson is an attorney of this place, and his many friends will be glad to learn that he will probably make a complete recovery.

TWO FIFTY AND COSTS.

Squire J. P. Hillips, of Fort Gay, tried a man by the name of Nurzum of Saltwater, Saturday for failure to send his child to school, and fined him $2.50 and costs.

MARRIED IN PORTSMOUTH.

Miss Marlon Kelley and Mr. Leslie Doyla Hendure were married in Portsmouth last Monday. Miss Kelley has visited Louisa frequently as the guest of Miss Jeanne Adams and was a very popular and attractive girl.

BURIED TOGETHER

Mrs. Harry C. Wellman and Little Daughter.

Laid to Rest in the Same Casket. Death Came to Them Both Within a Day.

After an illness of many months, borne with patient fortitude and resignation, Mrs. H. C. Wellman, aged 24 years, of Louisa, died at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hence Johnson, of Cyrus, W. Va., early last Sunday morning. Twenty-four hours later her only child, a sweet little girl of ten months, joined its mother in the Far Country where life is perennial and where happiness is fadeless and pure. On Wednesday afternoon the funeral and interment of mother and babe occurred, conducted by the Rev. H. S. Akers, of the Baptist church, the family graveyard being the place of burial. The same casket, almost hidden from sight by flowers wrought into designs of exquisite, odorless beauty, held both mother and child, each seemingly asleep beneath the fragrant buds and blossoms.

The funeral was very largely attended by friends from three States in a very large number being there from Louisa, the home of the sorrow-stricken husband and the abode of Mr. and Mrs. Wellman during the short period of a happy married life.

Seldan has this paper been called to chronicle so and a story as that which relates to the latter months of Mrs. Wellman's life. She married Mr. Harry C. Wellman, of this city about three years ago. She was a young woman of much beauty and charm of manner, amiable in disposition and lovely in character, and soon became a general favorite. Her married life was a happy one, her husband was devoted to her, and when the little one came her cup of happiness seemed full, nothing lacking. But it was not long after the coming of the little one before it became evident that the mother was marked by the Destroyer. She became ill, and it was not long before it was plain that consumption was preying upon her, and every effort made, every possible measure taken to prevent her young-hopeful life becoming a victim to the scourge. Physicians were consulted, journeys made, and every known means of restoration to health used, but all was fruitless, and it was soon apparent that death was inevitable. To add to the sorrow of the husband and parents of the wife and daughter the tender little one, never very strong, sickened and faded, until its wasted little body was laid in the coffin beside the cold form of the mother who wanted to live for "Harry and my baby." Its short ten months of troubled life ended painlessly, and of it we may truly say, "It is better off."

The many Louisa friends of Mr. Wellman have a large measure of sorrow and sympathy for him in this hour of great bereavement. The loss of his young wife and babe is surely a heavy blow, and all who have loved and lost offer words of cheer and consolation.

PROPOSED REVENUE.

Mr. John S. Mareum, one of the foremost criminal lawyers of West Virginia, was in this city a few hours last Monday. Mr. Mareum was a student in the old Masonic Academy, and while here this week he said it would be a good thing to have in the near future a reunion of the survivors of the classes of 1866 to 1872. Some very prominent men, lawyers, doctors and business men, and many noble, useful women are living who attended the old school during—and since—those years. Such a reunion as this would doubtless be a source of much interest and pleasure to all concerned. Mr. Mareum, whose address is Huntington, said he would like to hear from his old fellow students regarding this matter.

Death of L. F. Chapman.

Mr. L. F. Chapman, editor and proprietor of the Catlettsburg Tribune, died suddenly at his home in Huntington last Monday morning. He had been in failing health for some time but had not ceased from his newspaper work. The immediate cause of death was heart failure and hemorrhage of the lungs. Mr. Chapman was born in Wayne county and was 39 years old but had spent several years in Catlettsburg. He was closely related to George Ed. Chapman, of this county, and had visited this section not long ago. Mr. Chapman left a widow and one son to mourn his untimely decease. He was prominent in the business circles of Catlettsburg, a sober, industrious citizen and had made his paper a success. The News extends its condolence to the family.

C. & O. Will Double Track.

There are rumors to the effect that the C. and O. railway will double track the Big Sandy Division in the near future. Also, that the Baltimore and Ohio will have some connection with the enterprise, but just what the arrangement is we have not learned. New rail is now being laid on the entire Big Sandy division. It is 90 pounds per yard, replacing 65 pound rail. The business of this division can be taken care of on a single track and especially on the quality of track the line has had.

Jack Bingham Insane.

Jack Bingham, the well known ex-policeman, of Huntington, pugilist and late special agent for the Chesapeake and Ohio railway company, has been declared insane, before a court of lunacy, held in Huntington, yesterday, and will be sent to the Second Hospital for the Insane, at Spencer, W. Va.—Catlettsburg Tribune.

ED. SCHAUB WOUNDED.

Popular Traveling Salesman Shot at Kenova.

An unfortunate shooting took place in Kenova about eight o'clock last Saturday evening as a result of which Edward Schaub, a well known Huntington traveling salesman, lies dangerously wounded in a ward of Huntington hospital. Mr. Harris, an N. and W. engineer and one of Kenova's best citizens, feels equally as badly over the affair as any one could feel.

Mr. Harris had been out on a run and had just returned to Kenova. When he entered his home on Chestnut street, he passed a man on the porch, who, in the darkness, he believed to be his brother-in-law, Millard Jackson, whom he saluted in a friendly way. But the response was such as to show him his mistake and he demanded to know who the visitor was, and what he was doing there.

This demand was received by hostile demonstrations and threatening remarks on the part of the stranger, and Harris entered the house, closing the spring lock on the door as he entered. Schaub, Harris asserts, attempted to follow him into the house. After entering, Harris procured his revolver and came back to the porch by a side door exit. Here he renewed his efforts to have Schaub leave the premises, and trouble ensued which resulted in the firing of the shot. The ball from Harris' revolver struck full in the center of the right breast, piercing the lung and lodging in some undiscovered spot, near the spinal column.

Harris was arrested Sunday morning on a warrant sworn out by a brother of Ed Schaub, charging him with shooting with intent to kill. He was acquitted at the examining trial.—Ceredo Advance.

Mr. Schaub was quite well known in Louisa and this section of the country, as salesman for a Portsmouth dry goods house. He was here the same day he was shot.

POLITICAL.

Matters of Interest to the Voters.

Items For Those Who Want to Know About the Kentucky State Campaign.

Owensboro, Ky., Sept. 26.—Friends and supporters of Edward C. O'Rear, Republican candidate for Governor, were thrown into a panic today, when it became known that Col. J. W. McCulloch, the millionaire distiller of Owensboro, and president of the Kentucky Distillers' Association, is flooding Western Kentucky with letters to United States gaugers, postmasters and other Federal employees, calling for funds to assist in financing the Republican campaign in Kentucky this fall.

While Judge O'Rear is positively refusing to discuss national issues in any of his speeches, Mr. McCulloch, in his circular letter, says that victory in November will not only mean a Republican State "longer than we live, but at the next meeting of Kentucky Legislature, it will give us another United States Senator." He declares that it will aid in the re-nomination of Taft in 1912. He declares that the eyes of the national organization are centered on this campaign and that it is the duty of all Republicans to come to the aid of the State ticket.

On stationery of the "Republican State Campaign," the names of John W. Laogley, chairman, and Alvis S. Bennett, secretary, appearing at the top, Col. McCulloch is sending out his appeals for aid.

When Col. McCulloch was asked today for an explanation for his sudden activity in behalf of the man he had threatened to bolt if nominated, he merely grinned and refused to discuss the subject. An interesting story is contained in a special from Paducah on the organization of the branch headquarters at the Palmer House in that city on Sunday, August 27.

Col. McCulloch went to Paducah that day to meet Judge O'Rear, Chairman Langley and other Republicans. It is said both O'Rear and Langley had written Mr. McCulloch more than once urging a conference. On the Sunday of this meeting, it was given out in the newspapers that Judge O'Rear went to hear his old pastor, now located in Paducah preach and enjoyed the sermon very much; also that Judge O'Rear spent the remainder of the day at rest, refusing always to travel on trains or transact any worldly affairs on Sunday.

According to the story just published, after dinner on that Sunday there assembled in Judge O'Rear's room about twenty prominent Republicans, who had come by his invitation, from the First and Second congressional districts.

Judge O'Rear immediately took charge of the business in hand, and at his dictation the following officers were chosen for the branch organization, with headquarters at Paducah: T. W. Vinson, of Caldwell county, chairman of Executive Committee; W. P. Scott, of Hopkins county, chairman of Speakers' Committee; Wallace Key, of Callaway county, chairman of Publicity Committee; W. T. Fowler, of Christian county, chairman of Organization Committee; John W. McCulloch, of Davless county, chairman of Finance Committee. Mr. McCulloch was made chairman of the Finance Committee on motion of Mr. Langley, with Judge O'Rear nodding and smiling approval. Mr. McCulloch accepted the honor, and in his characteristic, businesslike way said there was no time like the present for beginning the work of raising money. He therefore announced his own subscription to the campaign fund, and in a few minutes had raised among those in the room $500.

This put some enthusiasm into the meeting, and O'Rear, it is said, slapped McCulloch on the shoulder, saying he had never known before what a good fellow he was, and added: "Go out and get it; don't confine yourself to the First and Second districts, but get it anywhere."

And McCulloch, heeding the admonition of his leader, has flooded Western Kentucky with letters to storekeepers and gaugers, postmasters, rural route carriers and Republicans generally, appealing for funds to elect O'Rear and make Kentucky safe for Taft next year.

Mr. McCulloch, as the head of the distillers' organization, has spent much time at Frankfort late past two or three sessions of the Legislature working against the passage of the "county unit" bill, and he vigorously opposed the nomination of O'Rear for Governor because of his advocacy of the "county unit" bill, even saying he would never vote for him.

McDermott Will Keep His Word.

Judge O'Rear says the Democrats are not sincere about the county unit. He pays the highest possible tribute to Edward J. McDermott, Democratic nominee for Lieut.-Governor, "as the classiest one of the bunch." Mr. McDermott has publicly stated that a majority of the allowed to vote on the extension of people's representatives will be the county unit, and on all other questions brought before the Legislature, and pledges his sacred honor that as Lieut.-Governor he will pack no committees for or against the measure, and that he will not permit obstructions that will permit a vote being taken. How can McDermott be the sort of man O'Rear says he is, unless he will keep his word on the county unit, and on every other issue in this campaign?

We say to you that McDermott is honest, truthful and since that he will faithfully keep every promise, and that Judge O'Rear knows he will.

Sailing Under False Pretenses.

Judge O'Rear hardly crossed the line into the Eleventh District before he began to remind the mountain people that he had written the opinion which had perfected the titles of their land, and made their homes secure. That is true, but only half true. Judge O'Rear could not have put that decision upon the books had not his fellow judges, all Democrats, empowered him to do so. It was not a political decision, nor was it the result of personal influence or persuasion. It was a just verdict, which the Supreme Court of the United States upheld, and it not only secured to the mountain people their humble homes, but made it possible for capital to build railroads, open mine and bring timber to market, and otherwise uncover the riches of that marvelous section. There was general rejoicing all over Kentucky when this decision enfranchised the mountain people. Politics had nothing to do with it, and Judge O'Rear had just one vote on the question.

It will become the Judge of the Court of Appeals to point to his decisions, and remind the people who profited by them that his hand wrote them, and that for this reason he should receive their generous consideration. It is not only against the ethics of the Judge's profession for him to do this, but it brings the whole Court in disrepute to have its decisions placed upon the bargain counter as if they were matters of barter and sale.

Whenever Judge O'Rear is called to account for some expression in his speech, or in his platform, he tries to change the subject by saying "It's all a joke." The humorous jurist will find that the very serious, and the proposition people are taking this campaign to have four more years of Willson and his crowd at Frankfort does not strike them as a laughing matter.

Don't forget that the nineteen senators to be elected this fall will not only vote for United States Senator next year, but will vote for a successor to Senator W. O. Bradley in 1914. The election in November is the most far-reaching in effect ever held in Kentucky.

Whitesburg, Ky., Sept. 29.—On the farm of Burdette Webb, at Sargeant, can be seen an apple tree of unusual interest. The tree was planted nearly seventy years ago by Jason Webb, father of present owner and for the past sixty years has been a steady and continuous bearer. This season, when thousands of young, vigorous trees failed to bear fruit, this old tree was laden with a bountiful crop of the finest fruit.

Eddyville, Ky., Sept. 29.—Matthew Kelley, negro, was electrocuted in the state prison here this morning just before sunrise. The extreme penalty was imposed upon the negro for a double murder committed in Louisville May 30, when he slew Pearl Evans, his mistress, and Clara Hamilton, his sister-in-law, as they slept.

Previous to this crime he murdered his wife, for which crime he was sent to the penitentiary for life, but was pardoned by Governor Wilson after serving seven years.

On Sunday, Sept. 16, near Adamsville, Ben Mantle shot and killed James Fisher and married Miss Fisher, a niece of the deceased, in less than an hour after the killing. A peculiar circumstance of the wedding and killing was that Fisher had $3,000 life insurance made payable to his niece now Mrs. Mantle, with the provision that he died before her marriage. According to the terms of the policy, Mrs. Mantle is entitled to the money, as Fisher died just thirty minutes before Esquire Ashabauer performed the ceremony which made her the wife of Mr. Mantle.

WEST VIRGINIA NEIGHBORS.

NEWS FROM COUNTIES JUST ACROSS THE RIVER IN WEST VIRGINIA.

The West Virginia Horticultural Society has made a careful estimate of the probable number of barrels of No. 1 apples that will be raised in the fruit belt this year. The estimate indicates that about 225,000 barrels of this grade will be forthcoming and the yield will be divided among the counties about as follows:

Berkeley, 150,000 barrels; Jefferson, 50,000; Morgan 10,000; Mason 3,000; Mineral 3,000; Hardy 2,000.

The third annual apple carnival of the Berkeley County Horticultural Society, to be held this week at Marlinton, will tend to emphasize the growing importance of West Virginia in apple-growing. In Berkeley and adjacent counties commercial orcharding is assuming great proportions every year, and some of the results are suggested in sales already of 15,000 barrels from one orchard for more than $45,000, and of the sales of other crops ranging from 3,000 to 10,000 barrels each and bringing from $2.65 to $3.25 a barrel.

West Virginia has an advantage in the superior quality of coal. It ranks second among the coal-producing States (producing more coal than any country outside of the United States except Great Britain and Germany). West Virginia ranks twenty-ninth in the value of its manufactures. Probably the larger part of the West Virginia coal consumed within the State is that burned in the locomotives hauling it away. Moreover, the high quality coal in the United States. If the small mines are left out of consideration there were only three counties in the State in which the average price in 1910 exceeded $1 per ton, and the aggregate output of these three counties was only a little over 1,000,000 tons—less than 12 per cent. of the total production. The general average for the State was 92 cents. In 1909 it was 86 cents.

Last week the first real oil well that is a bonafide gusher in Southern West Virginia came in 12 miles from Charleston. It was shot one day last week.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN.

COLUMN DEDICATED TO TIRED MOTHERS AS THEY JOIN THE HOME CIRCLE.

A happy fireside is better than a big bank account.

There is more sunshine in life to the minute than there is misery to the mile. But after all, it is just the way you look at it.

One of the most important things that a man owes to his family is cheerfulness. He should cast all trouble away when he comes to his home.

If you fear a suppling the tree will all the tale; so if a child is subjected to improper influence and examples the scars will remain and his life be blighted by it.

You may preach sermons and advocate reforms and denounce wickedness, and yet your children will be captivated by the glittering saloon of sin unless you can make your home a brighter place than any other place on earth to them.

The virtues grow about the home. They cluster bloom and shed their perfume around the fireside. Love husband, wife, father, mother child and home—without those words the world would be a barren wilderness, and men and women but brutish beasts.

We love to see people live well, says a thoughtful writer and to dress respectfully and enjoy themselves, but there is a happy mean in all these things, and when that is passed in the direction of extravagance, the people distress and enslave themselves and diminish their ability to do good. For the sake of keeping up the styles, people live far above their income, harass themselves with debt wear themselves out, and keep themselves in a constant nervous strain by giving fashionable dinners, fashionably entertaining and making fashionable calls.

All social circles welcome cheerfulness. A sunny face is an open pleasure to hearts and homes. By it burdens are lightened, care dispelled, sorrow banished, and hope made to reign triumphant where fear and doubt and despondency held high carnival. Your own life will be sweetened by your own joys heightened by your perennial heaven-lighted sunny face.

Let us take time to get acquainted with our families. The wealth you are accumulating may be a doubtful blessing to the son who is a stranger to you. Your beautifully kept house, busy mother, can never be a home to the daughter whom you have no time to caress.

This is the ladies' age. There is no mistaking that fact and in spite of fate she is going to play no second fiddle in the near future. The ladies, bless 'em, can do anything now days but fish, and already they are wonderfully professed in that art even—as far—as suckers are concerned. The lady never says can't except when she means won't, and when she says, "I will," you can bet your neck she is going to it she has to sell the family Bible to do it.

God placed somewhere in the heart of each of us a tender memory, which enables us to touch with a gentle hand or soothing word the heart of the afflicted. What a comfort to know that for every heartache there is somewhere in the universe a heaven inspired soul to comfort those downcast. Let us make our words as dew from heaven, touching with gentle hand the withered flowers, giving new vigor to the hardy.

Oh, gather all charms into your house! If you can afford it, bring books and pictures and cheerful entertainments to the household. But above all, teach these children, not by half an hour twice a year on the Sabbath day, but day after day and every day teach them that religion is a great gladness, that it throws chains of gold about the neck, and it takes no spring from the foot no blitheness from the heart, no sparkle from the eye, no ring from the laughter, but that "her ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace."

Of course, is the natural desire of every mother, to use a current phrase, to see her children grow up well. But much do we misinterpret the word "usually it is applied to a man's income or finan-

Silence!

The instinct of modesty natural to every woman is a great hindrance to the cure of womanly diseases. We shrink from the personal questions of the local physician, which seem indelicate. The thought of examination is horrid to them, and so they endure in silence a condition of disease which surely progresses from bad to worse.

It has been Dr. Pierce's privilege to cure a great many women who have found a refuge for modesty in his offer of FREE consultation by letter. All correspondence is held as sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription restores and regulates the womanly functions, abolishes pain and builds up and puts the finishing touch of health on every weak woman who gives it a fair trial.

It Makes Weak Women Strong, Sick Women Well.

cial possessions. When this is the case, the standard used is an unfortunate one. There is not a more cruel standard by which to measure a young man than the position he is able to offer the girl of his choice. We do not advocate the "love in a cottage" theory, by any means, but we do believe in the good old-fashioned theory of a young couple starting out into the world with a moderate income, and the elating upward together.

Too many mothers consider their children as simply objects for the display of their own vanity and pride. Little Mary must be kept in pure white clothes all the season through, though neither the father's purse nor the mother's strength is sufficient to provide the numberless changes necessary. Instead of dressing the child in sensible frocks of blue flannel, such as millionaires' children are not ashamed to wear for play dresses, every effort is strained to reach this false ideal of dress which the mother has set up for herself. She sits up into the wee small hours of the night working on dainty gowns in which all the childish impulses for play are stifled forever in dress array.

MATTHE.

Funeral of David Moore was preached at this place Sunday by Rev. John E. Conley. Dinner was placed upon Nature's table and many rejoiced at bountiful and good food.

After the services at the Free-will Baptist Church, where Mr. Moore's funeral was preached the many friends attended the burial of Master Montie Ball, born, Nov. 25, 1897, died Sept. 30, 1911, age 13 years, 10 months and 5 days. He was honest, truthful, kind and loving son. His last words were "Good-bye mamma, Good-bye papa," and he said he wanted them to meet him in Heaven. He closed his eyes in this world to wake in the City of Glory, where sorrow, pain and death never come; and where

S. S. CONVENTIONS.

Fine Meetings at Green Valley and Buchanan Last Saturday.

On last Saturday two of the best district Sunday school conventions ever held in Lawrence county gathered at Green Valley and Buchanan.
The former was probably attended by more people than any convention ever held in the county. Estimates on the crowd ran as high as 1000.

The official report of Green Valley tells the story so well that we publish it herewith.

We have no report from Buchanan except the expression of some who attended. They say it was a very successful and enjoyable affair.

Report from Green Valley.

East Fork, Dry Fork and Catt's Fork magisterial districts met in Sunday School Convention at Green Valley Sept. 30th and splendidly carried out the program. The convention was presided over by our worthy county president, M. S.
Burns.

Interest in Sunday school work was greatly manifested at this convention. It seems as though people are waking up to the sense of their duty in Sunday school work throughout the county, and no one doubts that the moral improvement in Lawrence county, which is so plainly evident, is largely, if not altogether due to the splendid Sunday school interest which prevails over the county. On this beautiful September day the crowds came from every direction. The school house would not hold one-half the crowd, so we moved to the beautiful grove near the school house and enjoyed a program that was good from start to finish. A large delegation from Louisa, in which there was some splendid singers, added to the enjoyment of the day.

At the noon hour we adjourned for a short time to enjoy the bountiful dinner that had been prepared by the good women of the neighborhood, and the world cannot beat the hospitality of Green Valley. Cakes and pies and chicken and pork and beef in baskets, boxes and even trunks—and such cakes and pies! It just makes one's mouth water to think of them. Too much cannot be said for the patient, good women who help to make this world brighter.

A contribution for International Work was taken and the good people responded cheerfully to the amount of $12.44, to the honor of the convention.

M. Harmon was elected president and J. M. Cooksey secretary for the ensuing year for the district.

Resolutions of this convention will be published in next week's Big Sandy News.

FISCAL COURT.

The magistrates of Lawrence county met as a court of claims this week and also to elect a road and bridge commissioner, a county physician and a keeper of the county infirmary. James H.
Thompson, former county superintendent of schools, was elected road and bridge commissioner. Dr.
C. P. Wheeler county physician and David Hughes keeper of the infirmary. Mr. Hughes was a former keeper, one of the best the county ever had.

isa, Ky., says: "One of my neighbors first brought Doan's Kidney Pills to my notice but I did not take them until I was in a miserable condition, and almost beyond healing cured. However I was pleased to note that they went at once to the seat of my trouble. The pains have disappeared from my back, that dull bearing-down ache through my hips has been removed and the kidney secretions have become natural."

NATIONAL CONTRACT CO.

Remarkable Record Made by Company
With Local Members.

The following article from a Steubenville, Ohio, paper will be read with interest by Louisa people because of the fact that two hustling citizens of Louisa are stockholders and officers in the company:

The National Contract Company
was incorporated under the laws of the State of West Virginia on Sept. 3rd, 1910, with a cash capital of $200,000. It succeeded to the river business of The Hollenbach & May Contract Company, of Evansville, Indiana. The Home Office of the Company is Evansville, Indiana, but the company has the contract for the construction of the Government Lock and Dam No. 9, Ohio river at New Cumberland, W. Va., and the head office is, in reality, on the work.

The company is composed as follows: S. L. May, President; John C. Thomas, M. Am. Soc. C. E. Vice President; E. P. May, Treasurer; H.
A. Scholze, Chief Engineer; Chas.
F. May, Secretary, and Mr. A. Hollenbach. All of the officers of the company are young men and take an active part in the management of the affairs and can be found on the work at all times.

The members of this company have had more experience in building locks and dams than any other company engaged in this line of business. They were interested in the construction of Galde Walls
No. 1, Ohio River; Locks 2, 3, 4, and 5, Ohio River; Dam No. 6, Ohio River; Dam No. 8, Ohio River; Dam
No. 3, Ohio River; Dam No. 19,
Ohio River; Lock No. 1, Turkey Fork, Big Sandy River; Dam No. 1, Kentucky River; Dam No. 1, Green River, Lock and Dam No. 6, Green River.

The present contract for Lock and Dam No. 9 Ohio River, is the largest contract on the Ohio River work and was awarded to them in September, 1910, at their bid of $912,455.66. They were unable to get their floating plant to the site until about November 1st, 1910, when work was rushed on the construction of the cofferdam for the lock and succeeded in completing same before closing down for the winter season as ice and high water interferes with this class of work from about December 1st to April 1st of each year.

At the beginning of Spring or about March 1st, 1910, the members of the company were at the site of their work and beginning preparations for rushing the work during the working season. They were delayed to some extent by high water during March and April and did not start pumping out their cofferdam until April 25th, 1911. Since then the company has pushed along with remarkable rapidity. By Sept.
1st, 1911, the lock proper will be practically completed and which means that one of the Ohio River locks was completed in about four months time when ordinarily it has required four years or more. The cofferdam was also built in July, 1910, for 500 feet of the Navigable Pass and with the present rate of progress, this portion of the work should be completed by October 1, 1911. This means that the Lock proper and 500 feet of the Navigable Pass or about 60 per cent of the entire contract should be completed by October 1st, 1911. It is the intention to tear away the present cofferdams and clear up the river for uninterrupted navigation during the winter months. However, the company will construct the cofferdams this fall for the Galde Walls and also for the first section of Weir and Bear Traps or a distance of about 400 feet out from the Ohio shore. Next sesson, the company hopes to get an early start and finish the entire contract in two seasons when the time allowed by the government was four years. Of course, this will depend entirely on river conditions during next season permitting the work to proceed as the company anticipates.

This means a record for Ohio River work and something never before attempted by any contractor or contemplated. However, this company has profited by experience and installed a plant that could not be equaled in this class of work.
Every contract undertaken by them has been completed according to the specifications and to the satisfaction of the government engineers in charge. This should signify that the members of this company have certainly demonstrated their fitness for this line of hazardous work and have given careful thought and planning to the same.

EXQUISITE MILLINERY

The season's most beautiful models in a full range of shades, new materials and prices and most beautifully fashioned. Many of the hats made in our own workrooms cannot be told from the imported models, and they sell at much less figures. All the rich autumn colors are represented and a complete millinery department in charge of one of the most competent milliners in this country is at your service.

Stylish Suit Models

Our suits range in price from $20.00 to $50.00 and every single number is striking in style and beautiful in weave and finish. The fitting qualities of our suit stock is one of the features of the department and the service and the prices and the general appearance of any suit selection will mark the wearer for good taste and judgment in the selection of a proper suit model for the fall season.

placing the proper plant or placing the proper men in charge of the same. Financially, the company is fully able to carry forward any large contract they may undertake and push it to completion at the earliest possible moment.

They hope to be the successful builders for the construction of Lock and Dam No. 10, Ohio River, near Steubenville, Ohio, and with their large plant now at Dam No. 9 and the organization at their command, and also the experience gained in constructing Dam No. 9, they should be in better position to rush it to completion than any other contracting company on the river.

Their success lies in the fact that all the officers of the company take an active part in the management and can be found on work at all times.

HO, FOR TEXAS!

Charles Holbrook and family, of Hulme, John Gartin, Will Queon
and Dr. L. D. Jones, all of Louisa, left Monday for a point 70 miles southwest of San Antonio, Texas.
The Holbrooks left Hulme via Webbville, joining the others at Ashland. The News understands that Mr. Holbrook will take real-dence in the Lone Star State, working there for the shoe firm in whose employ he has been for several years. He was a good citizen and will be much missed.

The other Louisians have gone on a prospecting trip to spy out the land. Some alluring tales have been poured into their ears about the distant Southwest, but like wise men they have gone to see for themselves. John Gartin in particular wants the people to know that he has not gone to stay. The party will return in about two weeks.

APPEAL TO ELECTION DELEGATES.

Mr. W. J. Vaughn left Wednesday for Somerset, Ky., on Sunday school work. He desires to appeal to the various Sunday schools throughout the county to elect delegates to the State Convention which will meet in Louisville October 19th-22nd.

There are now nearly 4000 Sunday schools in Kentucky. Each of these is entitled to a delegate to the State Convention, and their pastors and superintendents are delegates by virtue of their office. The railroads will make reduced rates, and entertainment will be furnished by the people of Louisville on a Harvard Plan, meaning lodging and breakfast free.

uisville Trust Bldg., Louisville, Ky.

THOUGHTFUL KINDNESS.

When it comes to doing deeds of thoughtful kindness it's the women of Louisa against the world. A late manifestation of their goodness is shown in their action regarding Mrs. E. M. Kenelson. Prof. Ken-elson is sick with typhoid fever, and in order that his wife may have as few burdens as possible the ladies of the Hills Circle, which is presided by the professor, take "turns about"
in furnishing the noonday meal.
There are 21 of these good women, and if good diet, changed daily,
Mrs. Kenelson will certainly thrive.

REMOVAL OF A TUMOR.

On Wednesday Dr. L. H. York, assisted by Drs. Bromley and Weman, removed a large fatty tumor from the right shoulder of Mr. Elijah France, of South Williamson, Ky. The operation was performed at the hospital and the patient is doing well.

"RIVER OF WATER OF LIFE"

Ezekiel xlviii, 1-12—Oct. 8
"Whoever will, let him take of the Water of Life freely."—Revelation xxi, 17.

In this study also we find that the Lord through Ezekiel gives us a picture of the Millennial Age, very similar to the one given us in the book of Revelation, seven hundred years after.

Ezekiel's picture shows Jerusalem and the Temple of God as the source of the River of the Water of Life; so in Revelation.

Ezekiel shows the river deepening and broadening from a rivulet to a mighty river. He pictures it as flowing down to the Dead Sea, and carrying life whithersoever it goes. He pictures the Dead Sea as being revived, recovered from its deadness, and full of fish. No such river has ever yet sprung forth from Jerusalem, nor can we imagine how the river would ever have its start in the mountain top and reach such proportions in the short distance. This description, picturing a great spiritual truth, is in full accord with the picture in Revelation. It represents beautifully, forcefully, the blessings of refreshment and restitution which will issue forth from the New Jerusalem, the Kingdom of Messiah, when it shall be established among men. Gradually the mighty influences of the reign of Messiah will extend blessings to all mankind, even to the submerged class, steeped in ignorance and superstition, fitly represented by the Dead Sea.

"River of water."

Revelation pictures this river as flowing from under the Throne, the New Jerusalem, clear as crystal, and having trees of life on either side of its banks, good for food. Ezekiel has the same picture in mind; he tells of the same trees, whose leaf shall not fade and whose fruit shall not fall, but which will bring forth good fruit every month, because the water which refreshes them comes from the Sanctuary. "The fruit thereof shall be for meat, and the leaves thereof for healing." Similarly, in Revelation, we are told, "the leaves of the trees will be for the healing of the people" and the fruit for the sustenance of everlasting life; and the Water itself will be for their refreshment. Then we are told that "the Spirit and the Bride" shall give the invitation—a world-wide invitation. "Whoever will" may come, and he who hears the invitation may say to others, "Come, and drink of the water of life freely!"

No Water of Life Now

We are certain in our application of these symbolic pictures, that they belong to the future and not to the present. Where is the Water of Life of Revelation now? Where have we anything corresponding to the life-sustaining trees and their healing leaves? On the contrary, now, we have the Lord's Word for it that "No man can come unto Me except the Father which sent Me draw him." In other words, there is a measure of selection or election as respects the class invited to constitute the Bride, the Lamb's Wife.

But with the end of this Age will come the end of the elective process; then the Divine Message will be Free Grace, an offer and opportunity to every creature of Adam's race. All blind eyes will be opened so that all may see; all deaf ears will be unstopped that all may hear, so that the knowledge of the glory of God shall fill the whole earth.

No Bride to Say, "Come"

The Revelation picture tells us that the Bride of Christ, as well as the Holy Spirit, will give the invitation to every creature to come and partake of the Water of Life freely. But how could the Bride give this invitation before she exists? That there is no Bride at the present time is manifest. Now is the time for calling the Bride class. Now is the time for those invited to make their "calling and their election sure," but Bride there will be none until the incoming Age. The name "Bride" implies a marriage; the Church is already espoused to Christ, but the marriage is promised to take place at His second coming. Then there will be a Bride, and shortly after, the glorified Church, in association with her Lord, will be in Kingdom power, in the New Jerusalem—the heavenly. From that City, that new Seat of earth's Empire, will go forth God's Message, gradually deepening and broadening until every member of the race shall have had an opportunity to share in its blessing of life everlasting.

Blessed thought! When the Prince of Life shall have put in force the laws of righteousness and equity with an iron rod, the masses of humanity will learn that "Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people." And, ultimately, they will learn to love righteousness. All who refuse to learn and obey will be "cut off" from life.

"Sitting under the vine."

THE GOLDEN AGE AT HAND.

Scriptural Evidence That Are Astonishing—No One Can Afford to Be Without the Knowledge.

We do our friends a valuable service when we call their attention to the valuable book entitled, "THE TIME IS AT HAND," in which are given many Scriptural evidences to prove where we are on the stream of time.

"Men's hearts are falling them for fear" and many of the leading thinkers are proposing remedies to better conditions. The Scriptures assure us that man's extremity will be God's opportunity, and this book holds out an anchor to those who fear the wave of unrest now spreading over the world.

The honest heart confesses that it is not a loss for an explanation of transpiring events. While we refer to this as the HUMAN AGE and the Age of ENLIGHTENMENT, nevertheless many realize that we are fast approaching a crisis which is wrapped in darkness owing to the present world-wide social, religious and political unrest.

As though by instinct the whole creation, while it groans and travails in pain together, waits for, longs for and hopes for the DAY, calling it the "GOLDEN AGE"; yet men grope blindly because not aware of the great Jehovah's gracious purposes. And to his wondering creatures, looking at the length and breadth, the height and depth of the love of God, surpassing all expectation, He exclaims, "My thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord; for as the heavens are higher than the earth so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts." Isa. 55:8, 9.

Admire Pastor Russell's Book.

Atlanta Constitution—Will Arp, the "Southern Philosopher," wrote the following review of "The Divine Plan of the Ages" some time before he died:

"It is impossible to read this book without being the writer and pondering his wonderful solution of the great mysteries that have troubled us all our lives. There is hardly a family to be found that has not lost some loved one who died outside the church—outside the plan of salvation, and, if Calvinism be true, outside of all hope and inside of eternal torment and despair. We smother our feelings and turn away from the horrible picture. We dare not deny the faith of our fathers, and yet can it be possible that the good mother and the wandering child are forever separated?—forever and forever?"

"I believe it is the rigidity of these teachings that makes atheists and infidels and skeptics—makes Christians unhappy and brings their gray hairs down in sorrow to the grave—a lost child, a lost soul! . . ."

"This wonderful book makes no assertions that are not well sustained by the Scriptures. It is built up stone by stone, and upon every stone is the text, and it becomes a pyramid of God's love, and mercy, and wisdom.

"There is nothing in the Bible that the author denies or doubts, but there are many texts that he throws a flood of light upon that seems to remove from them the dark and gloomy meaning. I see that editors of leading journals and many orthodox ministers of different denominations have endorsed it and have confessed to this new and comforting light that has dawned upon the interpretation of God's Word. Then let every man read and ponder and take comfort, for we are all prisoners of hope. This is an age of advanced thought, and more thinking is done than ever before—men dare to think now. Light—more light—is the watchword."

THE FINEST DAIRY

How It Compares With Nearest Schoolhouse.

DAIRY COW VERSUS CHILD.

Great Contrast Between the Care and Thought Bestowed Upon Each Near Lexington—Palestine For Jersey, School "Out at the Elbow."

I had not had time to get my luggage together and draw a long breath after leaving the train at Lexington before I was asked:

"Ever been out to Haggin's?"

"No," I answered, rather breathlessly and dazed. Then I gathered myself together and answered at a venture. "Oh, you mean the place outside of Lexington where Henry Clay was born, don't you?"

"Heavens, no! It's the biggest and finest thing in the way of a dairy farm in the world. You know it's owned by Mr. Haggin of New York City."

I went out to the great dairy farm on the trolley car—went past Lexington's beautiful new Country club and splendid residences, surrounded by magnificent old forest trees.

Too much cannot be said or written about this wonderful dairy farm of Mr. Haggin. The creamery, where the milk is cooled, bottled and double sealed for delivery in Lexington, is an artistic building of rough stone. The huge dairy barn is of concrete, brick and tiling, which gives it the appearance of some splendid county institution. Men in immaculate white uniforms were moving about the barn getting ready to milk the 425 registered Jersey cows that would soon be brought in from the hundreds of acres of idle grass over which they roam. Glancing at the doors and windows, I saw that they were covered with screening to keep out the flies, while water pipes and hose were everywhere to insure absolute cleanliness. I was very much impressed with the beauty, comfort and magnitude of everything I saw, so as I left the barn I asked:

FOR THE JERSEY COWS.

"Where do you get this tremendous supply of water? I saw hose and piping everywhere and a huge tower by the creamery."

"We have a complete pumping plant across country on the far edge of the farm at Russell's cave."

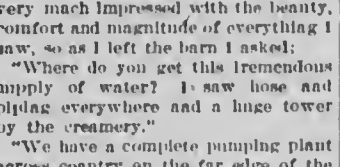

I drove to Russell's cave and found a perfect pumping outfit, even to a double filter that the water might be as pure as it was possible to make it. Suddenly I remembered that I had not come to Lexington to admire the beauty of the wide fields, the grand old home of Mr. Haggin's great dairy farm, but to look carefully at the schoolhouses. I turned to the man in charge of the engines and pumps and asked the distance to the nearest schoolhouse. It was not an eighth of a mile away from the pumping station and was a decided contrast architecturally. Although I had seen walks, concrete walks, in every direction about the Haggin farm, there was no semblance of a walk from the front gate to the badly patched wooden steps that were intended to lead the children along the primrose path of knowledge. Everything was "out at the elbow."

The contrast between the care and thought bestowed upon a dairy cow and a child was here sharp and distinct. The dairyman could see and figure the direct and immediate return in hard dollars and cents when his cows are luxuriously treated, but he could not or would not try to see into the future of the children and measure the return from an investment in schools.

THE TESTAMENT TIMES BROOKLYN TABERNACLE BIBLE STUDIES

"RIVER OF WATER OF LIFE"

Ezekiel xlvii, 1-12—Oct. 8
"Whoever will, let him take of the Water of Life freely."—Revelation xxi, 17.

In this study also we find that the Lord through Ezekiel gives us a picture of the Millennial Age, very similar to the one given us in the book of Revelation, seven hundred years after.

Ezekiel's picture shows Jerusalem and the Temple of God as the source of the River of the Water of Life; so in Revelation, Ezekiel shows the river deepening and broadening from a rivulet to a mighty river. He pictures it as flowing down to the Dead Sea, and carrying life whithersoever it goes. He pictures the Dead Sea as being revived, recovered from its deadness, and full of fish. No such river has ever yet sprung forth from Jerusalem, nor can we imagine how the river would ever have its start in the mountain top and reach such proportions to the short distance. This description, picturing a great spiritual truth, is in full accord with the picture in Revelation. It represents beautifully, forcefully, the blessings of refreshment and restitution which will issue forth from the New Jerusalem, the Kingdom of Messiah, when it shall be established among men. Gradually the mighty influences of the reign of Messiah will extend blessings to all mankind, even to the submerged class, steeped in ignorance and superstition, fully represented by the Dead Sea.

Revelation pictures this river as flowing from under the Throne, the New Jerusalem, clear as crystal, and having trees of life on either side of its banks, good for food. Ezekiel has the same picture in mind; he tells of the same trees, whose leaf shall not fade and whose fruit shall not fall, but which will bring forth good fruit every month, because the water which refreshes them comes from the Sanctuary. "The fruit thereof shall be for meat, and the leaves thereof for healing." Similarly, in Revelation, we are told, "the leaves of the trees will be for the healing of the people" and the fruit for the sustenance of everlasting life; and the Water itself will be for their refreshment. Then we are told that "the Spirit and the Bride" shall give the invitation—a world-wide invitation. "Whoever will" may come, and he who hears the invitation may say to others, "Come, and drink of the water of life freely!"

No Water of Life Now

We are certain in our application of these symbolic pictures, that they belong to the future and not to the present. Where is the Water of Life of Revelation now? Where have we anything corresponding to the life-sustaining trees and their healing leaves? On the contrary, now, we have the Lord's Word for it that "No man can come unto Me except the Father which sent Me draw him." In other words, there is a measure of selection or election as respects the class invited to constitute the Bride, the Lamb's Wife.

But with the end of this Age will come the end of the elective process; then the Divine Message will be Free Grace, an offer and opportunity to every creature of Adam's race. All blind eyes will be opened so that all may see; all deaf ears will be unstopped that all may hear, so that the knowledge of the glory of God shall fill the whole earth.

No Bride to Say, "Come"

The Revelation picture tells us that the Bride of Christ, as well as the Holy Spirit, will give the invitation to every creature to come and partake of the Water of Life freely. But how could the Bride give this invitation before she exists? That there is no Bride at the present time is manifest. Now is the time for calling the Bride class. Now is the time for those invited to make their "calling and their election sure," but Bride there will be none until the Incoming Age. The name "Bride" implies a marriage; the Church is already espoused to Christ, but the marriage is promised to take place at His second coming. Then there will be a Bride, and shortly after, the glorified Church, in association with her Lord, will be in Kingdom power, in the New Jerusalem—the heavenly. From that City, that new Seat of earth's Empire, will go forth God's Message, gradually deepening and broadening until every member of the race shall have had an opportunity to share in its blessing of life everlasting.

Blessed thought! When the Prince of Life shall have put in force the laws of righteousness and equity with an iron rod, the masses of humanity will learn that "Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people." And, ultimately, they will learn to love righteousness. All who refuse to learn and obey will be "cut off" from life.

"River of water."

THE GOLDEN AGE AT HAND.

Scriptural Evidence That Are Astonishing—No One Can Afford to Be Without the Knowledge.

We do our friends a valuable service when we call their attention to the valuable book entitled, "THE TIME IS AT HAND," in which are given many Scriptural evidences to prove where we are on the stream of time.

"Men's hearts are fulfilling them for fear" and many of the leading thinkers are proposing remedies to better conditions. The Scriptures assure us that man's extremity will be God's opportunity, and this book holds out an anchor to those who fear the wuvo of unrest now spreading over the world.

The honest heart confesses that it is at a loss for an explanation of transpiring events. While we refer to this as the BRAIN AGE and the Age of ENLIGHTENMENT, nevertheless many realize that we are fast approaching a crisis which is wrapped in darkness owing to the present world-wide social, religious and political unrest.

As though by instinct the whole creation, while it groans and travails in pain together, waits for, longs for and hopes for the DAY, calling it the "GOLDEN AGE"; yet men grope blindly because not aware of the great Jehovah's gracious purposes. And to his wondering creatures, looking at the length and breadth, the height and depth of the love of God, surpassing all expectation, He explains, "My thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord; for as the heavens are higher than the earth so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts." Isa. lviii, 9.

Sent 35 cents at once for the book. Bible and Tract Society, 17 Hicks Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Admires Pastor Russell's Book.

Atlanta Constitution.—Bill Arp, the "Southern Philosopher," wrote the following review of "The Divine Plan of the Ages" some time before he died:

"It is impossible to read this book without loving the writer and pondering his wonderful solution of the great mysteries that have troubled us all our lives. There is hardly a family to be found that has not lost some loved one who died outside the church—outside the plan of salvation, and, if Calvinism be true, outside of all hope and inside of eternal torment and despair. We smother our feelings and turn away from the horrible picture. We dare not deny the faith of our fathers, and yet can it be possible that the good mother and the wandering child are forever separated?—forever and forever?"

"I believe it is the rigidity of these teachings that makes theists and infidels and skeptics—makes Christians unhappy and brings their gray hairs down in sorrow to the grave—a lost child, a lost soul! . . .

"This wonderful book makes no assertions that are not well sustained by the Scriptures. It is built up stone by stone, and upon every stone is the text, and it becomes a pyramid of God's love and mercy, and wisdom. There is nothing in the Bible that the author denies or doubts, but there are many texts that he throws a flood of light upon that seems to remove from them the dark and gloomy meaning. I see that editors of leading journals and many orthodox ministers of different denominations have endorsed it and have confessed to this new and comforting light that has dawned upon the interpretation of God's Book. Then let every man read and ponder and take comfort, for we are all prisoners of hope. This is an age of advanced thought, and more thinking is done than ever before—men dare to think now. CONCERNING MOLLIE

Proves Herself Equal to the Occasion

By AGNES G. BROGAN

There was a dignified aloofness about Professor Craythorne's manner which de familiarity. This may have accounted for a fact that he seemed a bachelor as the years drew to an end. Mollie, who admired his fine face and winning qualities retired disconsolately from the field of conquest. Unapproachable demeanor, while Professor in turn regarded them, small, with plying tolerance, and, with a pretty and amusing, not impossible as an interesting one, while deep in his heart he confessed that eventually he would be one woman whose mind he had to his own down the intricate learning, for he was contented the happiness of two people always depend upon their mutual understanding. And when Professor had reached this conclusion, Mollie, it was at an evening by the rector's wife, he remembered, remembering the request, introduced a historical game by way of entertaining the professor, looking up with a playful frown, met the insouciance of Mollie's blue eyes. "The last one?" she asked sociably.

"Your pardon?" His tone was questioning. "I would like to copy your answer to the question," Mollie cooed. "I don't know what became of the dead and gone kings, and I'm not sure, but one really ought to have one correct answer among the dead, and you"—a flattering pause—"know everything."

"I may be better able to solve the problem," the professor answered concedingly. "When I shall have given sufficient thought."

"That's right," Mollie encouraged; "be a quitter."

Professor Craythorne stared in astonishment at this disrespectful young person; but, quite unconscious of her name, Mollie smiled. Moreover, Mollie has a most engaging smile, and it was the beginning. Thereafter it was the professor who appeared strangely diffident in her presence and who humbly sued for favor. While Mollie avenged her sex by ruling him with a high hand. And the habitual frown which grew upon his forehead could not wholly be attributed to study. In fact, science and philosophy alike were the "rule of three" compared to the ways of Mollie.

Had he been fortunate enough to act as her escort upon one occasion he would be sure to see her in company with Dick Brandon the following day, while gentle kindness upon Mollie's part was usually followed by cold indifference.

After all, the professor reflected bitterly, what chance had he to win with such a formidable rival as Dick Brandon—Dick, who was practiced in all the pleasing arts of which he was so woefully ignorant?

And when he had argued himself into the very depths of discontent Professor Craythorne went over and proposed to Mollie. She received his proposal quietly.

"Will you mind if I do not answer you tonight?" she asked. "Do not keep me waiting too long," he replied, and his laugh sounded boyish in his ears.

Mollie studied the toe of her small boot. "I will send you a message to-morrow," she said. "You will understand."

Oh, that was a long tomorrow, and when the last class had been dismissed the professor retired to his gloomy room in the university and sank wearily into a chair, his misceous eyes gazing out over the green campus.

"A note for you, sir." A servant spoke from the doorway. He turned and the tiny envelope over and over in his palm, while his heart hammered away painfully, and his strong fingers trembled as he drew forth the square white card. He was vaguely conscious of the little printed name and address scrawling above a bold scribbled signature. "My sympathy in your disappointment." It was some time before he could realize the cruel message. He remembered—she had said she would understand.

"No one here?" called a cheery voice, without waiting for an invitation young man came into the room. John Craythorne looked up impatiently.

"Evening, Brandon," he said, trying to interrupt her meditation. "No," the young man began, "but I need help."

Have been indulging in any usual pranks it will be useless to interfere for you again." Brandon laughed. "This is a different matter," he said. "I want to get married. You noticed the approaching—most people have."

Craythorne smiled, but his eyes were strangely. "Those circumstances," he said, "it is not wise to consult a lady?"

"Part is all right," Dick answered; "we've been in each other ever since we were little. It's the old man who will consent. He objects to my youth, instability and a few other unworthy qualities, having in mind at the same time a more desirable 'part' for his daughter. Trouble is daughter is just obedient enough to yield to his wish, though there is no doubt as to her affection for me."

"Now, the point is this—If some person who has some influence with the old fellow, whose judgment he relies upon, could suggest to him that I am not at all a bad sort, why, he would probably come around to our side. At least, that is what Mollie said when she sent me to you."

"Mollie—sent you—to me?" The words came slowly. John Craythorne's face had grown very white. "Yes," Dick answered. "She said you'd be sure to do it for her, you two are such good friends."

The professor laughed shortly. "He will be at home tonight," Dick remarked indignantly as he turned toward the door.

When he was alone again the professor turned on the electric light above his mirror and pitilessly examined his own tired face. He noted with a grim smile the hard lines which seemed to have forced about his mouth. He was glad that Mollie was not to be seen when he sought her home, for the sight of her winsome face would be more than he could bear in his present mood.

Her father welcomed him with his usual cordiality. The professor stood with frowning brows and briefly stated his errand.

"I come at your daughter's request," he said, "hoping that when you realize her future happiness is at stake you will not withhold your consent to her marriage with Richard Brandon."

Then while he enlarged upon Dick's few virtues and condoned his many faults the older man listened attentively.

"This is a great disappointment to me," he said at length, "and you will pardon my bluntness. I had hoped that my daughter's choice might have fallen upon yourself."

John Craythorne sighed. "I also dared to hope," he said quietly.

"Before we discuss the subject further," her father continued, "I would like to send for Mollie."

"I prefer not to be present at that discussion," the professor answered stiffly. Then he turned suddenly to face Mollie herself. After the first startled glance he resolutely avoided her eyes.

"Professor Craythorne has been interested with me in your affair, Mollie," her father said. "He assures me that young Brandon will make you a good husband, though I confess I regret your choice. Nevertheless your will must always be mine, my daughter."

John Craythorne waited in breathless suspense for Mollie's answer.

"Professor Craythorne," asked a meek little voice, "will you kindly tell me just why you choose to play the part of John Alden?"

He confronted her indignantly. "Dick Brandon gave me to understand that such was your wish," he replied.

Mollie's eyes widened, and then she laughed—it was an aggravating little laugh. "I did not expect you would give Dick such a good character," she said wickedly. "When you know very well he flunked last year."

A prolonged whistle sounded down the hall at this moment, and Mollie puckered up her lips to answer. Instantly the object of the conference lurched into the room.

"Hello, Mollie!" he called. "That blundering man just gave me your card, and I rushed over. What's the news?"

Mollie extended her hand. "Dickie," she said, "will you let me see that card? I left two of them at the university today, one for Professor Craythorne and one for you. I am beginning to suspect that I put them into the wrong envelopes. Yes," she said, smiling over at the professor, "this one was intended for you." Then she read aloud:

"I shall expect you at 8 this evening. Do not disappoint me."

"Yours was just a word of sympathy, Dickie," she said sweetly, "written when little told me that her father had refused his consent to your marriage."

John Craythorne took one hasty step in her direction, then hesitated as Mollie's father spoke sharply. "Will you please tell me what this all means?" he asked.

Mollie's eyes were dancing. "Beattie's father thinks very highly of Professor Craythorne's opinion, and that is why I suggested that he might persuade the obstinate old man to withdraw his objections to Dick as a suitor. However"—she laughed over her shoulder—"I think I have managed it for you, Dick. You had better go over and see."

"Mollie," John Craythorne cried eagerly, but she clung to her father for a moment, ignoring the call, while the old man's face beamed with satisfaction; then she pushed him gently from her.

"Daddy," she hinted broadly, "must you really go?"

And a long time after, while the professor and Mollie still lingered in the library, she raised her glowing face to look up at her lover reproachfully. "You do not deserve such happiness," she said. "You would have married me off to another man."

"Dear," John Craythorne answered tenderly, "how dared I hope that you cared for this solemn old student, while Dick possessed those admirable qualities—youth and good looks?"

The girl touched the little crescent upon his forehead caressingly. "You have qualities which Dickie will never possess," she said; then her laugh rippled merrily. "Any one but a stupid professor would see that I do not need youth or good looks," said Mollie.

HOW TO USE COCONUTS.

There Are Various Delicious Ways of Serving Them.

The sight of the big brown coconuts in the fruit stalls recalls many delightful ways of using them. Although the dedicated head sold in packages has its uses, it is often sold when stale, and one cannot be as sure of it as of the fresh nut.

When selecting a coconut choose one in which the "milk" can be heard when it is shaken. Punch open the small spots at the end of the nut to let out this liquid and then break it open with a hammer. The thin rind after breaking the shell away from the meat can be peeled off neatly with a French cook's knife.

A coconut can be grated in quantity at home and dried with sugar. It will keep fresh a long time and will not lose its delicate flavor. Grate the white meat on a platter and sprinkle with the sugar. Place it in the oven with the door open so that it will dry slowly. The heating closet under the oven has been used in this way to advantage. The smallest cutter of the meat grinder may sometimes be used instead of the grater, and if it can it will save much time and patience. Some choppers cut the coconut into tiny lumps, which are not attractive. About one cupful and a half of grated coconut can be obtained from one nut rather under medium size. Fresh coconut grated in this way is also nice if slightly browned, but if a gas range is being used care must be taken not to place the coconut too near the flames, as it catches fire easily. Custards, bombons and other sweets are improved by a sprinkling of this browned coconut.

Grated coconut may take the place of meringue on a pie, and some puddings will like it better. A few flakes should be folded through the filling, and the covering should be delicately browned. Apple tarts treated in this way are very attractive. Fill the baked shells of puff paste with apple sauce, sprinkle liberally with snowy coconut and put the tarts into the oven for five or ten minutes or until the filling has thickened and the coconut is a delicate brown.

Fresh grated coconut may be used to advantage with strawberries in various desserts and other sweets. A coconut blancmange, for example, is delicious if each plateful is served with a large spoonful of very ripe mellow berries.

No two flavorings combine so well as orange and coconut. Sliced sweet oranges are often sprinkled with coconut and served as a dessert for a supper. Sliced bananas may be served in place of the sliced oranges and covered with a snowy coating of sweetened whipped cream and sprinkled with a little fresh coconut. For a tutti fruit put sliced oranges and bananas in layers, sprinkling between with sugar and grated coconut and arranging over the top a decoration of maraschino cherries or very ripe strawberries rolled in powdered sugar.

HOW TO COOK BANANAS.

Several Ways of Preparing Wholesome Fruit in Palatable Form.

Paints that revolt at raw bananas can enjoy them well cooked. Stomach specialists—some of them—say this fruit is nourishing and should be served often.

A simple pudding is made from a custard of yolks of three eggs to a quart of milk, slightly sweetened. When the consistency of thick cream pour it over thin slices of banana in a pudding dish. Put meringue of whites of eggs on top and brown slightly in oven. Serve cold with cream.

Sliced bananas mixed with cornstarch just before it stiffens and served with fresh strawberry sauce are delicious.

Baked bananas are sometimes used as a vegetable. Peel and cut in half, lengthwise. Divide if large. To each banana allow a tablespoonful of sugar, two tablespoonfuls of water, a tablespoonful each of lemon juice and melted butter and a pinch of salt. Put slices in shallow casserole and bake slowly for half an hour, keeping them well basted.

How to Wash Ivory Handled Knives. In washing ivory or bone handled knives they should never be put into water, as it injures the handles. The blades may be placed upright in a mug of hot soda water, for in this way the handles will be kept dry. Should the handles come off fix them again thus: Take powdered resin and mix it with a small quantity of powdered chalk, whitening or slacked lime. Fill the hole with the mixture, beat the shaft of the knife and insert firmly into the handle. When cold it will be quite fast.

How to Make Cheese Straws.

Take a quarter of a pound of puff paste, a tablespoonful of flour, a tablespoonful of grated cheese and a little paprika; roll the cheese into the paste as if in rolling in flour; roll it out thin and cut it in lengths of about four or five inches long and a quarter of an inch wide; twist each strip and press it on a well wetted baking tin and bake in a moderate oven for ten or twelve minutes. Have some rings made with the same paste to hold the straws and serve on a napkin.

How to Make Molasses Cookies.

Warm a cupful of molasses nightly and beat to a cream with half a cupful of softened butter. Add the juice of half a lemon, one tablespoonful of ginger and half a teaspoonful of cinnamon. Now stir in two cupfuls of flour sifted three times, with an even teaspoonful of baking soda, until you have a soft dough; roll out and cut into shapes. Bake it in a good oven.

Use worn-out white stockings for wash rags. Cut away the foot. Fold the top double and hem or overcast the edges. The edges may be bound, and a strap fastened across the center to slip the hand through.

To cook eggplant, cut into slices half an inch thick and let them lie for an hour in salted water to remove that bitter taste. To fry, put the slices in the frying-pan with a small quantity of butter; turn when one side is done.

Have you tried baking eggs? Grease a baking-dish with butter, break the eggs into it, cover with cream. Add salt, pepper, and a tablespoonful of butter. Set it in a moderate oven a few minutes. Length of time depends on whether you like them soft or well-done.

Helps the Farmer to Sell

THE FARMER was worried over the market reports. Cotton was rising. When it reached a certain figure he proposed to sell. The day before it had almost reached his price. What would it bring today?

The farmer needed first-hand information at once. He stepped to his Bell Telephone. The Long Distance connection with the buyer in a distant city informed him that cotton had reached the top figure, and he sold his crop at a handsome profit.

The Universal Bell System enables the producer in remote rural districts to keep in touch with market conditions without the necessity of leaving home.

By the way, have you a Bell Telephone?

Alfred H. Hildreth, of Nicholas county, died on the 26th of August. His will he left his property, valued at $5000, to his wife during her life. At her death the entire estate was to go to a son, Mr. Miller, a magistrate of this county. From a notice recently received by Mr. Miller it is thought that the brothers of Mr. Hildreth are about to contest the will.
